Pawns are being moved around a global chessboard: an attack on an oil platform in Africa, a terrorist strike on an American destroyer and a storm tossed American spy ship that may fall into Chinese hands. It seems that Premier Zhao is determined to limit Ryan's choices in the upcoming negotiations. But there are hints that there's even more going on. A routine traffic stop in rural Texas leads to a shocking discovery—a link to a Chinese spy who may have intelligence that lays bare an unexpected revelation. Lost in the Cold War Mar 17 2020 In 1952, John T. “Jack” Downey, a twenty-three-year-old CIA officer from Connecticut, was shot down over Manchuria during the Korean War. The pilots died in the crash, but Downey and his partner Richard “Dick” Fecteau were captured by the Chinese. For the next twenty years, they were harshly interrogated, put through show trials, held in solitary confinement, placed in reeducation camps, and toured around China as political pawns. Other prisoners of war came and went, but Downey and Fecteau's release hinged on the United States acknowledging their status as CIA assets. Not until Nixon's visit to China did Sino-American relations thaw enough to secure Fecteau's release in 1971 and Downey's in 1973. Lost in the Cold War is the never-before-told story of Downey's decades as a prisoner of war and the efforts to bring him home. Downey's lively and gripping memoir—written in secret late in life—interweaves horrors and deprivation with humor and the absurdities of captivity. He recounts his prison experiences: fearful interrogations, pantomime communications with his guards, a 3,000-page overstuffed confession designed to confuse his captors, and posing for “show” photographs for propaganda purposes. Through the eyes of his captors and during his tours around China, Downey watched the Great Leap Forward, the Cultural Revolution, and the drastic transformations of the Mao era. In interspersed chapters, Thomas J. Christensen, an expert on Sino-American relations, explores the international politics of the Cold War and tells the story of how Downey and Fecteau's families, the CIA, the U.S. State Department, and successive presidential administrations worked to secure their release.

The American Warrior Oct 24 2020 The American Warrior: my life with Jack Follow the life of a modern-day hero in this upbeat, spirited account of the most decorated soldier in US Military history. Told from the viewpoint of his third wife, The American Warrior, chronicles the life of Jack, Rachel and Amelia in modern day. Follow their day-to-day life beginning with their discovery, through a job-related background check, of his Most Decorated status, through speeches shoulder-to-shoulder with POTUS (President of the United States) at Arlington National Cemetery, a night in the Lincoln Bedroom, and special dark chocolate bars given before bedtime by the Commander-in-Chief. Be inspired by a man, who, while living in Hawaii with his wife and baby daughter, was twice a week the reason for an autograph line with a wait time of over two hours. Tourists, rock stars, actors, and celebrities waited to meet Jack. Jack had suddenly become the world's hero. A computer software company designed, produced and sold a best-selling Door-Gunner Jack video game and a luxury car company is designing and producing a Special Edition car in his name. This obliging and unpretentious man has raised over twenty million dollars for the widows and children of soldiers who lost their lives in Afghanistan and Iraq. The story of The American Warrior takes the reader through the uncertainty of life as well. Having been a fire fighter for 25 years of his younger life was the cause, we think, of Jack, when he was 67 years old, developing and eventual diagnosis of adenocarcinoma of the esophagus. Principled to a fault, he takes no credit for his heroism. As quoted in a special-edition book released in honor of all living Congressional Medal of Honor recipients in 2011: "Everything I did was by instinct. I am not a hero, nor am I braver than the next man or woman. You would have done the same." The American Warrior is the story of a Vietnam war hero's life told fifty years after his experience in Vietnam as a door gunner: too tall for the job. Jack's Most Decorated status was earned through his feats of heroism while serving as a door-gunner in Vietnam as a 19 years old kid. He is the recipient of a Congressional Medal of Honor, 2 Purple Hearts and a Bronze Star. Jack's Vietnam experience is the subject of a major motion picture to be released in 2020.
